

Memorial Services Are Held for Dead In Tornado Belt

Remarkable Progress Is Made in Burying Dead, Healing Wounded and Caring for Homeless.

PERMANENT RELIEF IS NEXT OBJECTIVE

Joint Relief Committee From Several Illinois Counties To Supervise Reconstruction Work.

CHICAGO, March 22.—Looking upward and onward, the survivors of the tornado districts of southern Illinois and southeastern Indiana stood shoulder to shoulder today and prayed for courage to be strong.

Memorial services for the dead of more than 800 in the stricken sections of five states marked the first Sunday since the fury of the elements had waste a 500-mile stretch of territory last Wednesday.

Ministers and members of all churches joined in a memorial service this afternoon in the public square at Springfield, Ill., where the storm had wrought greatest havoc. Here, the survivors raised their eyes and their voices to the Almighty, praying for strength to aid the weak, the injured, the widowed, the orphaned, and the homeless.

Pledge Faith Anew.
Grateful to God that many had been spared and appreciative of a nation's generously outpoured relief, the survivors pledged anew their faith in Providence, in themselves and in their communities, they resolved to build firmly anew. Four months of rehabilitation work, has been estimated, face the survivors of the worst storm this country ever experienced.

Four days have passed since the tornado broke, yet the Red Cross is an emergency relief unit in every stricken community, all injured are under medical treatment, and every homeless one has a temporary shelter. Henry M. Baker, national director of disaster relief of the Red Cross, announced.

Permanent Relief Is Object.
Permanent relief now is the object of the rescue forces. The emergency has been nobly and adequately met, all agree, but the task ahead is for the future and on that program the Red Cross, local authorities and the various contributing organizations will concentrate their efforts.

Permanent headquarters will be established where the Red Cross now is functioning in Carbondale, Ill., Baker said. Here the Red Cross, medical units, the national guard and other relief agencies have centered their rescue work.
From these headquarters, Director Baker planned to get into motion the machinery of rehabilitation, which, as nearly as may be possible, will re-establish every family wrecked by the tornado. The emergency measures are working adequately and smoothly and the permanent relief, made possible by the generous aid of countless cities and communities throughout the country, is immediate task, according to Director Baker.
Early this week, committees from Asoson, Williamson, Franklin, Hamilton and Perry counties, Illinois, will meet to form a joint relief committee to supervise the relief and reconstruction work. Each community will have representation in the joint committee.
This general joint relief committee has no interference with the work of any national organizations in the field, but desires to make sure that the needs have been overlooked. Coordinated action of the resources of the Red Cross, Salvation Army and other organizations, it is believed, rehabilitating the stricken cities and rural sections will produce all a human power can accomplish. The situation, though more cheerless in prospect, still is one which gives strong hearts courage, but continued on page 3, Column 2.

'FIRE BUG' SPREADS REIGN OF TERROR IN NEW YORK CITY

Pyromaniac Leaves Trail of Sorrow in Six Fires in 24 Hours Causing Five Deaths.

New York, March 22.—The upper east side tenement districts are being searched for a supposed pyromaniac who has terrorized the neighborhood during the last 24 hours by setting six fires, one of which resulted in the death of five persons and the injury or several others.

Those who died in the fatal fire, which was the fifth set by the maniac, were:
Thomas Carter, Mrs. Margaret Otto, Blanche Otto, 8-year-old daughter of Mrs. Otto; Mrs. Catherine Walsh, and Joseph Walsh, her 17-month-old son.

Three others were seriously burned.
Starting at dusk on Saturday, the supposed firebug continued his spree until dawn Sunday. Despite a general police alarm all efforts to find the madman failed.
The first blaze was discovered at 5 o'clock Sunday morning and was started, police believe, in a baby carriage beneath a wooden stairway. While this blaze was still at its height, a police gas fireman was guarding the district and leading trapped dwellers to safety, another tenement was being set afire only a block away on East Forty-sixth street.

The last fire was extinguished before it made any great headway. The incendiary had piled newspapers under the dilapidated staircase and ignited them, but an occupant of the house, having for church, discovered the blaze and it was easily snuffed out.

There is no doubt, according to fire department officials, that the unknown madman was responsible for six fires Saturday night and early Sunday. He also is credited with another fire Saturday, in which many persons had narrow escapes.

GERALD CHAPMAN TO TRIAL TUESDAY

Famous Bandit Has Been Kept in Solitary Confinement Last Six Weeks in Connecticut Jail.

Hartford, Conn., March 22.—Guarded as few men in the history of American criminality have ever been guarded before, Gerald Chapman, noted mail bandit and alleged murderer, will go on trial Tuesday for the murder last October of Patrolman James Skelly, of New Britain, Conn.

In an isolated cell, cut off from the other prisoners by three steel doors, Chapman has spent the last six weeks without daylight or fresh air, except for two quick trips to the county building here. He was removed from the prison, which the government designated as a federal penitentiary during his incarceration, once to allow him to plead not guilty to the charge of murder, and again to listen to an associate attorney plead for a change of venue from Hartford county.

Kept Absolutely Alone.

The rest of the time Chapman has been absolutely alone and has not even been allowed to talk with guards at the prison. The warden and his deputy were the only ones to whom the government granted the privilege of talking with the noted prisoner, with the exception of his chief counsel, Judge Frederick J. Groehl. Groehl has visited Chapman three times. So rigid, however, Chapman and his lawyer were only allowed to talk while the warden was in another part of the room.
Chapman is accused of shooting Skelly when Skelly is alleged to have caught him robbing a safe in the Davidson & Leventhal department store. The police say Chapman shot down the officer as he barred his way to liberty. He was arrested in Muncie, Ind., after a running gun fight with officers, and later turned over by the government to the Connecticut authorities at the request of State Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn, to stand trial.
Chapman has issued a statement through Judge Groehl, denying that he was in New Britain the day of the murder, and said that if state witnesses intend to testify that he was there, they were either "liars, or they are," he said.
Connecticut has already spent more than $25,000 on the Chapman trial for investigation. Witnesses for the state have been brought from Indiana, Georgia, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut. Those from Indiana will be the Muncie police who arrested Chapman there. It is expected the state will offer 70 witnesses. The defense will offer but ten witnesses.

40,000 BLARE GLAD WELCOME TO MUSSOLINI

Monster Demonstration Given Leader of Fascism on Recovery From Attack of Influenza.

SIXTH ANNIVERSARY ALSO CELEBRATED

Premier, Bare-Headed and Wearing Black Shirt of Fascists, Gets Wonderful Ovation.

ROME, March 22.—Forty thousand whooping fascisti today welcomed Benito Mussolini back to public life on the sixth anniversary of the foundation of the first fascist unit in Italy.

The premier has been confined to his home for several weeks, recuperating from influenza. There had been rumors that Mussolini's condition was graver than his spokesmen would admit, but his appearance Sunday proved that he was on the road to health.

Mussolini's voice is not the one to capitulate to illness. His face was pale and his figure emaciated, but his words boomed from the main balcony of Chigi Palace, surrounded by members of his cabinet and prominent fascist leaders. When the packed thousands recognized the premier and realized he was wearing the black shirt of their order, the demonstration was terrific.

Different Six Years Ago.
Six years ago the scene was different. Then a comparatively unknown Mussolini, who had been a socialist before the war, a sergeant during the struggle, and finally the most intense nationalist ever bred in Italy, was engaged in organizing a group of young men in north Italy into a body which he hoped would rescue the country from the chaos into which it seemed to be drifting.

By 1922, the fascist movement had progressed to the point where Mussolini could command an army of black-shirted warriors to seize control of the principal cities and finally to march on Rome itself. He did that and has been premier ever since.

His speech Sunday was full of fight. Bareheaded, the premier heard the assembled throng intersperse their cheers with shouts of "Welcome back! Keep well! We want you as our leader!"

Bellows His Answer.
"Spring is here," the premier belled in reply. "and the best is yet to come. I return with the spring, which will see beautiful things."
"Do you want me here?" he shouted. "Yes," replied the many-throated crowd as if with a single voice, and the affirmative echoes echoed back and forth across the packed square.

Although the actual anniversary is not until Monday, the holiday was celebrated Sunday. Black-shirted hosts paraded wherever one of the 9,000 centers of fascism is located. In the principal cities, prominent fascists spoke in eulogy of Mussolini, their cause and Italy.

Church Looter Rifles Purses During Service

Nine Worshipers Report Losses—Frat House Looted Before Daybreak.

During the past several months burglars' row has produced the "baby bandit," the mail-box robber, the bicycle hold-up man, and a host of others. Now comes the church looter.

Sunday was a beautiful day and attendance records were shattered at the Central Presbyterian church, 45 Washington street.
The cloak room was piled high with light spring wraps and accessories. Most people close their places of business on Sundays and rest, but off duty among those whose names are listed in the want ad columns at police station are optional, and they have a peculiar habit of working while other persons sleep—or rest.

Pay Visit to Church.
Several—or, maybe, one—of these "gentlemen" concluded to turn over the proverbial pay and attend church and they—or he—chose the Central Presbyterian as a likely place for reform.
But a stroll through the cloak room proved a temptation too great to be overcome.
In consequence Detectives J. J. Cowan and B. P. Gillespie have been assigned the duty of recovering a long list of stolen articles.
Among those reporting losses are Miss Marguerite Moss, 33 South Gordon street, a silver mesh bag and several dollars; Miss Louise Estes, 10 Kirkwood road, whose pocketbook was emptied of a book of car tickets and $40 in currency; and Mrs. Mary Dicker, 292 East Fourth street, a gold watch and $3.

Aircraft Secrets, Bared in Late Row, Related in Serial

Sensational Disclosures of "Inside War" and Demotion of Mitchell Told by Will Irwin.

CONFLICTING VIEWS REACH WHITE HEAT

Silence of Coolidge on Disarmament Talk Seen as Move To Equip Nation With Planes.

(What are the merits of the Washington aircraft controversy? General Mitchell's charges, heated rebuttals from high officials, congressional investigation, show it to be the most important question of national defense raised since the world war. The Atlanta Constitution and the North American Newspaper alliance commission of Will Irwin to go to Washington and win out the facts. Will Irwin was chosen for this work, first, because he believes international cooperation will prevent future wars and hence has no sympathy with alarmist opinion; secondly, because his experience as a correspondent in the late war gives him a first-hand knowledge of conditions under discussion, and finally because he is regarded as the foremost reporter and newswriter in United States. Will Irwin has presented his findings in a series of 12 articles, of which this is the first. Editor's note.)

BY WILL IRWIN.
A congressional investigation, started last year for the sole purpose of determining whether an aircraft inventor named Martin was getting his rights from the government, broke into a hornet's nest. The inquiry broadened, as congressional inquiries have a way of doing, until it embraced the whole question of our aerial defenses. There rose a storm, whereof Brigadier-General William Mitchell, the truculent second in command of the Army Air service, was the center. By now, everyone had forgotten Mr. Martin; the question of a united air service, a separate arm of the national defense, became the main issue. The controversy proceeded with that vindictiveness which seems to mark all rows in any army.

The men of the air service, speaking more frankly in private than in the witness stand, called the general staff of the army, the general board of the navy, desk soldiers and muck-bucks. The generals and admirals called the aviators "air chauffeurs."

There was "school girl stuff," high officials of the government refused to attend social functions managed by members of the opposition.

Once a mysterious anonymous communication, probably from some high source, threw the inquiry into an unaccountable panic. Once again, General Mitchell seems to have been marked for immediate removal. Then hidden counter-influences got to work, and Mitchell stayed for a time. Then, when the inquiry ended, he was sent back to the line with the possibility of a court-martial hanging over his head. Did the American army and navy really intend to let a man who had been in the line of duty for less than two years be taken off his feet by a breakfast all along Potomac park?

Conventional inquiries always listen to some real wisdom and a great deal of unsupported bunk. This was no exception.
The several thousand pages of testimony contained some facts, half-truths masquerading as facts, and a lot of flat contradictions, together with at least a thousand pages of irrelevance.

Pretty Draperies Feature "Home Beautiful" Exhibit

Mrs. R. H. Thomas Is Enthusiastic Over Furnishings of Residence at 562 Morningside Drive.

The draperies alone will be worth a visit to the "home beautiful" exhibit, which will be conducted by The Constitution and cooperating merchants, according to the management of this great educational enterprise which will open its doors to the public on March 29. The show will last for eight days during which these homes will be a Mecca for everybody in Atlanta and vicinity interested in home making and home improvements.

While there were only three houses in 1924, drawing an attendance during nine days of 150,000, this year the exhibit will present seven houses, and the attendance is expected to be many thousands greater than in the first year when the way was paved for future successes. The houses are located at 46 Decatur road, Druid Hills; on Melrose drive, Sylvan hills; 562 Morningside drive, North Highlands, and four units at the Avondale estate, the Willis development, one mile from Decatur. These homes will be open from 1 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 o'clock at night.
When the seven houses in the "home beautiful" exhibit are opened to the public, one of the first visitors will want to see is the house located at 562 Morningside drive, North

TRIAL OF RAWLINGS AND TANNER OPENS AT WRIGHTSVILLE

Men Charged With Murder of Rich Johnson County Planter To Face Jury.

Wrightsville, Ga., March 22.—While C. C. Rawlings, wealthy landowner, who was jointly indicted with J. J. Tanner on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Gus A. Tarbutton, had not been placed under arrest up to a late hour tonight, lawyers announced that he would be in court tomorrow morning when the case is called for trial. Tanner has been in jail more than a month. Both men were indicted a week ago.

Both sides announced tonight that they are ready to proceed with the trial tomorrow morning.

Tried Separately.
Although Tanner and Rawlings were jointly indicted the cases will be tried separately, it is understood. The whereabouts of Rawlings have not been disclosed by lawyers in the case.

Five strange men appeared here this afternoon, said to be agents of insurance companies which had taken risks of more than $250,000. Nearly $100,000 of this was in one company. Some of these men were in conference with lawyers for the state late this afternoon.

The state will be represented by Fred Rea, solicitor general of Dublin; former Judge J. L. Kent, W. C. Brinson, E. L. Stephens, former solicitor of this city, and J. J. Harris, of Sanderville.

Thomas W. Hardwick, former United States senator from Georgia, and now residing in Dublin, Ga.; Willis A. Evans, A. R. Wright and W. C. McMillan, of Sanderville, and Charles S. Clanton, of Wrightsville, will appear for the defense, it was announced tonight.

Gus A. Tarbutton, 52, wealthy landowner, was killed February 17, while a member of a party who was searching for bauxite deposits on one of his farms. J. J. Tanner, farm overseer, who was walking behind Tarbutton at the time, claims he stumbled and fell his gun was discharged, the load striking Tarbutton in the back of his head, killing him instantly. C. C. Rawlings, 68, joint farm owner and operator with his kinsman, Tarbutton, who was walking behind Tanner, stated he did not see the actual shooting, but when he heard the report of the gun, Tanner was on the ground, and Tarbutton was falling.

At the instance of Tarbutton's son, Fluker, 21, the case was investigated with the result that Tanner was charged with the murder of Tarbutton and Rawlings ordered held as accessory. Two negroes were also held as material witnesses.

At a preliminary hearing before justices, each case being tried separately, Tanner was ordered held, and Rawlings was freed. Later the Johnson county grand jury indicted both Tanner and Rawlings.

Highlands, if the enthusiasm of Mrs. R. H. Thomas, who is in charge of the arrangement of the furnishings in this house means anything.
Mrs. Thomas says, "This house is a darling, everything is so new, white and pretty, and the rooms so well arranged. The Sterchi Furniture and Carpet company, who have so liberally agreed to supply the furnishings for this house, are cooperating with me in such a big way that my work is being made easy. You know Sterchi is enlarging their drapery department, and have such lovely things to select from, that our draperies alone in this particular house will be worth a visit to it. Excepting for the silverware, pictures, books and electrical equipment, Sterchi is furnishing this house completely. It is hard hard to say which of the exhibit houses will be the most attractive, but one thing is certain, this house will "hold its own" with any of the others."

The house Mrs. Thomas is so enthusiastic about is one of a number being built by W. B. Shepherd in beautiful North Highlands. This development adjoins Morningside, both of which are being developed under the supervision and management of J. R. Smith and M. S. Rankin, realtors.

BENNETT CASE GOES ON TRIAL TODAY BY JURY

Rome Couple To Face Jury on Murder Charge in Connection With Death of Bennett's Aunt.

BITTER STRUGGLE OF LAWYERS SEEN

Indictment Followed Discovery of Skeleton Under House Formally Occupied by Bennetts.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 22.—Answering an indictment charging murder, W. H. Bennett, of Rome, Ga., and his wife, Mrs. Mae Bennett, Ga., on trial in criminal court here tomorrow. The Bennetts, long prominent in Tennessee and Georgia, are charged with being responsible for the death of Bennett's aunt, Miss Augusta Hoffman, who lived in the Bennett home in Chattanooga a decade ago.

The indictment leading to the trial about to begin was returned by a Hamilton county grand jury last September, after Mr. and Mrs. Bennett had been held under joint bond of $7,500 following a preliminary hearing in July.

History of Case.
Mr. and Mrs. Bennett and their four children came to Chattanooga from Knoxville in the winter of 1912 and rented a house in a fashionable residential section. Later, Miss Augusta Hoffman, an aged aunt of Bennett, came to make her home with him. Mrs. Anna Bennett, mother of Bennett, and sister of Miss Hoffman, was also a member of the family. Mrs. Bennett has since died.

The house was occupied by the Bennetts until June, 1917, when Bennett, who held a responsible position with a railway system, was transferred to Rome, Ga.

Miss Hoffman, during her stay in Chattanooga, was employed in a modiste's shop.

Part of Skeleton Recovered.
Last summer, as workmen were making repairs on the house formerly occupied by the Bennetts, a grave was discovered under the house, from which was subsequently removed a portion of a skeleton. Physicians said the bones represented the body of a woman.

The state will attempt to show, it is said, that a number of articles found in the hidden grave were the property of Miss Hoffman. These include a plate of false teeth, eye glasses, pair of shoes, small gold pin and a handbag. The bones when found were partially covered by a rain coat. Miss Hoffman had not been seen by neighbors, it was testified at the preliminary hearing, for a period of years before the Bennetts left Chattanooga for Rome, and one witness testified that when she inquired as to the whereabouts of the Bennetts, she was told they had moved.

Holdup Staged On Peachtree By Polite Duo

Inquire About Victims' Health, and Shows Concern for Neighbors.

E. H. Camp, of 38 Peachtree circle, late Sunday night was robbed of $10 and a gold watch by two courteous unmasked hold-up men.
Camp told Call Officers Chewing and Hughes that he was walking on Peachtree street and had reached Peachtree circle when the roadster drove up, the two men stepped out and demanded that he "stick 'em up." After rifling his pockets and inquiring after his health they advised him: "Stroll on down the street, but don't make any noise. You might disturb the neighbors." With that parting admonition and a suggestive flourish of the gun they climbed into their machine and sped away.

One of the men was short and stout and the other of medium size and slender. Both had been drinking heavily, Camp said.

13 Persons Killed When Fast Train Runs Past Signal

YOUTH IS IMPALED ON BRIDGE RAILING WHEN AUTO SKIDS

Assistant Cashier of Dallas Bank Killed in Unusual Automobile Accident Sunday.

Dallas, Ga., March 22.—(Special.) Oliver Moon, 20, assistant cashier of the Dallas Commercial bank, was almost instantly killed tonight at 7:30 o'clock in a most unusual automobile accident, when he was jerked from the car and impaled on a bridge railing as the car sped on.

Moon was a member of an automobile party of five Dallas young men, driving on the Marietta-Powder Springs highway. Herbert Sheffield was driving, with Paul Meek sitting beside him, while Moon, Carson Cooper and Jean Watson were on the rear seat, Moon being on the right. As the car approached Nosse creek bridge a sandbar was struck, which caused the rear of the car to swing to the right, striking the steel railing, which side-swiped Moon, jerking him from the car as the automobile mounted the bridge.

When the car was stopped and the other members of the party, none of whom was injured, returned to the end of the bridge, they found Moon suspended on the railing. He lived about an hour, never regaining consciousness.

The car was not damaged except for the hole torn in the side and back and was later driven into Dallas.

Moon is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Moon, and several sisters and brothers.

The body was brought to Dallas, but funeral arrangements have not been completed.

SOLONS REQUIRED TO TAKE PAY HIKE

May Return, However, Any Part of Salary as Acquittance to Government, Comptroller Rules.

Washington, March 22.—Comptroller General McCall, whose rulings so often have tightened government purse strings, now by another rigid construction of law has decided that members of congress must accept the recent boost in pay they voted.

In the same ruling, however, the comptroller held there was nothing to preclude representatives and senators from returning any part of their salary as an acquittance to the government, if they did not wish to retain it.

Mr. McCall's opinion in the matter was sought by J. G. Rodgers, sergeant-at-arms of the house, who asked what he should do when a member declined to accept the increase. The comptroller advised that the rate of pay fixed by law must be accepted, and that only one check could be issued each "pay day." Otherwise, he said, heirs or representatives of any member thus declining a part of pay could at any time make a claim for it.

Several members of the house have taken the position, Mr. Rodgers informed the comptroller, that they should be paid at the former rate of $7,500 a year, and asked for checks on that, instead of the new $10,000 basis. One member, he said, had declined to sign the payroll because the increase was included. So Mr. Rodgers found himself with money he could not dispose of and he sought a way out of the situation from Mr. McCall.

FIREPROOF HOTEL WILL TAKE PLACE OF THE BREAKERS

Palm Beach, Fla., March 22.—A new fireproof hotel, arising out of the ashes of The Breakers, burned by the disastrous fire of last Wednesday, will be constructed immediately, Henry E. Bemis, vice president of the Florida East Coast Hotel company, announced here today, following a meeting of directors of the company.

The new hotel, Mr. Bemis said, will be of the most approved design, adapted to both the climate and the type of pleasure seekers who frequent Palm Beach.

"It will be neither too pretentious nor too conservative," he said.
The new Breakers probably will have a capacity of 500 guests, Mr. Bemis indicated.
The cost of the new building will be in the neighborhood of $2,000,000, it was said. It will be erected on the site of the hotel destroyed last week on the furthestmost point of the east Florida coast.

The work of clearing away the debris of the old structure to make room for the new probably will start next month, Mr. Bemis indicated.

KANSAS CITY DOCTOR INVENTS NEW TRUSS

New Discovery Heals Rupture Without An Operation.

A new discovery which, experts agree, has no equal for curative effects in all rupture cases, is the latest accomplishment of the well-known Hernia Specialist, Dr. Andrews, 1228 Koch Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. The extraordinary success of this new method proves that it holds and holds a rupture. It weighs only a few ounces. Has no hard gouging pads, no elastic belt, no leg straps, no steel bands, and is as comfortable as a light garment. It has enabled hundreds of persons to throw away trusses and replace their ruptures absolutely healed. Many of these had serious double ruptures, from which they had suffered for years. It is Dr. Andrews' ambition to have every ruptured person enjoy the quick relief, comfort and lasting power of his discovery, and he will send it on free trial to any reader of The Constitution who writes him. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he can refer. If you wish to be rid of rupture for good, without an operation, take advantage of the doctor's free offer. Write him today. subdivision on Sunday many are of the opinion that there is a whole forest under the beds of the small branches that run through the Heights. Others believe that this is a most unusual formation and is not a petrified forest but a strata of granite inferior to other granite that is abundant in Georgia.

S. M. McCallie, state geologist, and one of his assistants made a very careful study of this formation on Saturday but refused to make any statement pending further study of the specimens. Mr. McCallie is expected to give a statement sometime during the latter part of the week. Other samples have been sent to Washington for study.

Every week sees a big change in Blue Rock Heights. Improvements are being pushed by Berry Collins, owner of the estate, and by next Sunday sidewalks will parallel both sides of Blue Rock drive and the great white way posts will be in place to illuminate the boulevards. Grading will be carried on as rapidly as possible. The beautiful sunken garden will have been definitely planned and will be started immediately.

Holmes Institute Chief Discusses Racial Problems

"There is no section of the country where the white people are more interested in the educational, religious and civic condition of the colored people than in Atlanta and the south, where they are known best," said Rev. R. B. Holmes, president of the Holmes Institute, Sunday morning in delivering a lecture in St. Peter's A. M. E. church on the subject, "Race Cooperation." "White people of Atlanta have contributed their moral and financial support to most of the enterprises fostered by the colored people of the city," he said.

Rev. P. W. Williams, pastor, paid a high tribute to the work of the Holmes institute.

W. S. Cummings Speaks To Bible Students At Sunday Meeting

Declaring that "eternal blessings for the entire race are near at hand," W. S. Cummings, in a lecture at Bible Students' hall, Sunday, said, "God's original purpose was to have a race of human beings on the earth, possessed of everlasting life and living without sin."

The speaker delivered a convincing address on the subject, "God's Kingdom Has Come," in which he quoted several passages in the Bible to prove his statements.

"Six thousand years of evil and sin followed by 1,000 years of uplift and blessing for all the race," was prophesied by Mr. Cummings, his assertion being based on Bible passages.

Many Noted Evangelists Take Part in Special Meetings at More Than Dozen Churches.

Thousands of Atlantans, attending more than a dozen churches in the city, Sunday launched the greatest evangelistic revival campaign ever held in the city.

Revival leaders from several outside states assisted in the services at many of the churches. The series of revival meetings is to last for a period of three weeks and, according to officials of the various churches participating, conversions running into the thousands are expected.

At Wesley Memorial, Rev. Frank M. Neal, of Amarillo, Texas, and Song Leader Fred J. Poulter, of Ardmore, Okla., nationally-known evangelists, opened the campaign.

Rev. L. B. Harrell was assisted by H. E. McBrayer, song leader, in opening services at Underwood Methodist church, while at First Methodist church, Rev. Costen J. Harrell opened the services Sunday and will conduct meetings every night, except Saturdays, during the revival.

At West End Presbyterian church, Dr. Willis S. Wilson will conduct services Wednesday night and at Hemphill Avenue Methodist church services began Sunday and will continue for the entire period, directed by the pastor, Rev. E. B. Aycock, assisted by Rev. Andrew Jenkins.

The campaign will continue daily for a period of two weeks at Gordon Street Baptist church under direction of the pastor, William Howard Faust, assisted by Song Leader H. E. McBrayer, of Tennessee.

Two meetings were held Sunday and will be held daily at Inman Park Baptist church under direction of Dr. Keith B. Wright, of Greenville, Texas, and the entire period, directed by the pastor, Rev. L. Wilkie Collins, will be assisted in the revival by members of the men's Bible class of the church. Services began at this church Sunday.

The noted evangelist, J. E. Quinn, will assist Rev. W. Lee Cutts at Capitol View Baptist church at daily meetings which began Sunday and F. E. Purley, song leader, will have charge of the musical programs.

The revival was started at Woodward Avenue Baptist church with a sermon by the pastor, Rev. H. P. Brookshire, and a special musical program.

In addition to these churches many other organizations in Atlanta and suburbs are taking part in the revival campaign in which many of the nation's greatest evangelists will participate.

Public Is Invited To Witness Parade Of 122d Infantry

A large number of Atlantans are expected to witness the regimental parade tonight of the 122d Infantry, Georgia national guard, when members of Atlanta's "Old Guard," famous local organization, will be honored guests.

The parade will begin at 8 o'clock in the main hall of the auditorium-armory. Colonel Charles H. Cox, regimental commander, in charge. W. M. Camp, commandant of the "Old Guard," will lead the battalion, members being in full uniform.

Regular army inspectors who have recently completed the annual inspection of the regiment also will be present, the parade having been staged as a part of the regiment's claim to being one of the best trained outfits in the south, despite the fact that it has been in service less than one year.

The "Old Guard" is composed of leading Atlantans, many of whom have been identified with national guard activities for many years. The organization is one of the oldest in the state and much sentiment attaches to the brilliant record its members maintained in years gone by. "Old Guard" members will attend in brilliant uniforms and are expected to form an imposing spectacle of the regular unit-monthly regimental parade staged by "Atlanta's Own" national guard regiment.

An invitation to the general public has been given by Colonel Cox and visitors will be given every courtesy and consideration, it was announced.

Nacoochee Students To Conduct Service At Decatur Church

Decatur Presbyterian church will be the scene at 7:30 o'clock tonight of a unique and interesting program when the boys and girls of the Nacoochee school from the town of that name will have entire charge of the meeting.

The young students will tell of their religious experiences in the mountain country from which they come and will entertain with musical selections.

Sunday night the Presbyterian Glee club of Lithonia, Ga., gave a most entertaining program at the Decatur church which was attended by a capacity congregation.

J. EPPS BROWN III; CONDITION CRITICAL

The condition of J. Epps Brown, chairman of the board of the Southern Bell Telephone company, and former president, who is ill at his home on Peachtree road, remained unchanged at a late hour Sunday night.

Mr. Brown suffered a paralytic stroke Friday night and little hope is held for his recovery. Attending physicians are expecting some change in his condition within the next 48 hours.

Mr. Brown retired from the presidency of the Southern Bell corporation in June, 1924. He was succeeded by Ben S. Read.

MRS. E. L. WELLS DIES AT SON'S RESIDENCE

Mrs. Ella Leech Wells, 78, died Sunday afternoon at the home of her son, James Leech Wells, 2 Barksdale drive. The body will be sent to Louisville, Ky., with H. M. Patterson and Son in charge. Funeral services will be held from the Warren Memorial Presbyterian church, of that city, with interment in Cave Hill cemetery.

She is survived by four other sons, Hubert W., of Garden City, Long Island; Philip P., of Fishburg, Pa.; Ernest H., of New York city, and C. W. Wells, of Berkeley, Cal.

COURT IN SESSION IN BANKS COUNTY

Homer, Ga., March 22.—(Special.) Banks county superior court was in session here the past week. The charge to the jury of Judge W. W. Stark, who presided, on what he thought is the cause of the present so-called crime wave, was one of the best ever heard here.

This is the first time Judge Stark has presided here, since his election last fall.

$15,000 DAMAGE CAUSED BY FIRE

A loss of approximately $15,000 was caused by flames early Sunday morning at the grocery store of M. Kaufman, 146 Houston street. The origin of the fire has not been determined. The blaze had gained considerable headway when noticed and the entire stock of goods was a total loss.

NEW YORK SURGEON WILL BE HONORED AS DINNER GUEST

Dr. Fred H. Albe, of New York city, internationally known orthopedic surgeon, will be honored guest at a dinner to be given Monday at the Atlanta Biltmore by members of the Atlanta Graduate School of Physicians and Surgeons.

Dr. Albe is in the city to conduct a special clinic in orthopedic surgery at Grady hospital on Monday afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock. Mayor Walter A. Sims will be among the prominent guests present at the dinner. About 60 professional men of Atlanta will attend.

The eminent surgeon reached Atlanta Sunday afternoon. He is stopping at the Atlanta Biltmore.

Everybody present was given an Irish name to be known by during the entertainment. Several interesting games and contests were conducted by Miss Marda Snellie and M. M. Welch. ENGLISH WAR LEADER IMPROVES SLOWLY

London, March 22.—The Earl of Ypres, who as Field Marshal French led the British armies during the war, is maintaining a slight improvement following several days of illness, his physicians announced Sunday.

Workers Hopeful Of Rescuing Two Entombed Miners

Fairmont, W. Va., March 22.—Spurred to greater effort by the belief that possibly two of the 33 miners entombed in the Barrackville mine of the Bethlehem Mines corporation by an explosion last Tuesday night might still be alive, rescue crews tonight were redoubling their efforts.

While some mine officials fear that all who were in the mine at the time of the explosion are dead, there are others who have been laboring constantly in the rescue work who still hold to the belief that at least two survivors will be found. The more optimistic ones point out that T. R. Dehart, an experienced miner, and a helper, were working in a remote passageway when the blast occurred and it is these two who, it is said, may yet survive.

Four more bodies were taken from the mine tonight, and when rescue workers came to the surface they were of the opinion that the mine would be cleared of all its dead by early morning.

In all, 15 bodies were brought out today. They were found in a new working off the main west end butt. One of the bodies was that of Harry Marston, night foreman. It was crushed badly.

Mrs. A. B. Robinson, of Seattle, Wash., composes cross-word puzzles with thread and crochets them on bedspreads, table cloths and flannel dollies.

Local "Clean-Up" Campaign Will Be Launched Tonight

With the slogan, "Make Atlanta the City Beautiful," civic leaders will gather tonight at the chamber of commerce to formally launch the clean-up and paint-up campaign that has been an annual feature of Atlanta's spring season for the past five years. An elaborate banquet will be set for the 500 leading citizens to whom the chamber will play host. Ben F. Fraser, Jr., chairman for the campaign, announces the following speakers: Mayor Walter A. Sims, W. R. C. Smith, president of the chamber of commerce; Mrs. T. T. Stevens, president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs; Robert H. Jones, president of the Kiwanis Club; Dr. Thorpe Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe University; Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of public schools, and Preston Arkwright, chairman of the board of the Georgia Railway and Power company.

There will be a free discussion of Atlanta's needs in making the city 100 per cent clean. While a special effort will be made during the period of the campaign—April 7-19, to put the city in its best dress for opera week, campaign leaders pointed out that there is a more fundamental purpose in view—that of ridding the city of every possible source of infection and making it the cleanest, healthiest city in the country.

To this end, cooperation of all civic bodies, city departments and various organizations is being enlisted. Boy Scouts, public school children, city sanitary department, Parent-Teacher's associations, women's clubs and other bodies have definitely pledged their support and committees representing each group have been appointed. In addition, there is a special stunt committee composed of C. K. Ayer, Julian Boehm, Fred Houser and Dave Webb which will stage a number of sensational events on Peachtree and Whitehall streets during the campaign to drive home to the people of Atlanta the need and the value of a clean, attractive city.

SERVICES HELD FOR STORM DEAD

Death List Incomplete. The death list still is incomplete. Tonight it stood at 811, and the injured list at 2,939. There are yet bodies in the ruins, it is believed, and in the improvised hospitals there yet lie many grievously wounded and near death. The bottoms east of West Frankfort, in particular, are expected to yield more corpses.

But these emergency cases are slowly being reduced and numbers of the sick and injured are being revived and sent to temporary shelters. Identification of the dead and injured is proceeding.

Tent communities are rising in the ruined sections of Murphysboro, West Frankfort and various wrecked villages in rural sections. Here the survivors are collecting remnants of their homes and bringing together remaining members of their households.

Debris is slowly being removed from the business sections and the store and office buildings are being repaired.

Courageous Spirit of Survivors. Something of the spirit of the courageous survivors was expressed today by the Rev. McKown, pastor of the damaged Methodist Episcopal church.

"What we need is prayer and not weeping," he said. "We will ask the Almighty that we may be so that we can do the most for suffering humanity and then to rebuild."

Aside from the extreme simplicity, the services today were marked by an expression by all speakers of a faith and hope in the future instead of stress on the city's present sorrow. One minister summed up the city's spirit thus:

"Our tears are shed; our loved ones are laid away; the future lies before us to use. Let us rebuild our city and follow in the steps of Him who said 'I am the way, the truth and the light.'"

1,500 at Services. There was no vast multitude at the service. About 1,500, some in mourning and some in handkerchiefs, were there. Probably other hundreds would have attended the public funeral, but there were other things to be done.

Even while the funeral service was in progress, some were burying their dead, ambulances were passing with the more desperately hurt who were on their way by special train to St. Louis. Hundreds were engaged in relief activities and urgent rehabilitation work.

The services lasted an hour, opening with prayer and the singing of "Nearer My God to Thee." Each of the ten Murphysboro pastors spoke for five minutes and the funeral ended with the singing of "Rock of Ages" and the benediction. The audience stood quietly in the bright sunshine of a warm spring day while the men of God spoke words of comfort, sympathy and hope for the future. Then they quietly dispersed, going about to bring order out of chaos.

Burial Goes Forward. Work of burying the dead went on today. It has been estimated that about half of the dead have been given the simple rites that humanity can furnish under existing conditions. Yesterday six ministers chanted requiems in two adjoining cemeteries near Murphysboro, as the clergymen passed from grave to grave.

Survivors of broken families, leveled homes and wrecked property are the next steps to be taken by the relief agencies. The facts must be ascertained as the basis for rehabilitation.

Sanitation generally is regarded as satisfactory, and the medical men are working valiantly to prevent disease or infection.

Situation Clearing Up. As the week opens, the situation is clearing up somewhat, but the evacuations and homeless still remain dispirited. The public schools probably will not open for another week. State troops occupy one school building in West Frankfort, and hospital uses have claimed another.

Troops barred Sunday visitors and passers were denied to all but relatives and relief workers. Thousands of motorists were turned back everywhere in southern Illinois and southwestern Indiana.

The dangers of flood and disease in Griffin, Ind., are passing, relief authorities believe, and the same is true for Princeton and Owensville, as well as southern Illinois cities.

Latest figures placed the dead in Illinois at 637; in Indiana at 109; Missouri, 11; Tennessee, 23; and in Kentucky 18. Total casualties have reached 3,750 in the five states.

5,000 PERSONS FED AT RELIEF STATIONS.

Murphysboro, Ill., March 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Murphysboro's tornado death list today was raised to 193, while 51 of the more seriously injured, all of them in desperate need of expert surgical attention, were taken to St. Louis on a special train.

The first shooting in Murphysboro since soldier guards were brought to watch over tornado-swept property occurred this morning when Will Morgan, a negro laborer, was shot in the leg by a soldier. The soldier claimed that the negro drew a pistol after he had been ordered to work and resist.

Sheriff C. E. White said the shooting was unwarranted and Major Robert W. Davis ordered an investigation.

Between 30 and 50 victims of the wind were buried today, and about the same number of funerals are scheduled for tomorrow. Burials and funeral services are conducted with efficiency and dispatch, because people are too busy caring for the injured and digging their homes out of

TOURISTS DROWN AS AUTO PLUNGES FROM HIGH BRIDGE

Forrest City, Ark., March 22.—A man and a woman, believed to be Mr. and Mrs. John Otto Schwarz, of 5749 Winthrop avenue, Chicago, were drowned near here today when their automobile they were driving plunged off a bridge into 12 feet of water. Their bodies were recovered.

Identification was established by papers found on the bodies. Mr. and Mrs. Schwarz, it is believed, had been wintering in Brownsville, Texas, and were en route to Chicago when, on crossing the wooden bridge, Mr. Schwarz is believed to have lost control of the automobile.

The accident was witnessed by several persons who were fishing in the lake under the bridge. They declared that Mr. Schwarz apparently lost control of the automobile, which plunged through the wooden railing. Both occupants jumped from the falling car. Mr. Schwarz attempted to rescue his wife, and held her on the surface for a few moments, but both sank before rescuers could reach them.

AMERICAN "JINERS" $10,500,000 Paid for Emblems in One Year.

Washington, March 22.—Further evidence to support the charge that Americans are a race of "jinners" was given in the report today of the census bureau of a survey of manufacturers of emblems and insignia. The 84 establishments engaged in the industry had a gross output in 1923 valued at $10,500,000.

TWO MISSING FLIERS SOUGHT IN GEORGIA

Jacksonville, Fla., March 22.—Word has been sent to cities along the route from Waycross, Ga., to Jacksonville in an effort to locate two members of a flying circus who left Waycross Saturday morning for Jacksonville in an airplane, and who had failed to arrive tonight. The missing men are Hal G. Rowe, pilot of the plane, and Hal Taylor, mechanic. The owner of a plane at Pablo Beach, near here, made a trip to Waycross and back today in an effort to find the missing fliers. He expressed the opinion that they had probably been forced down in some secluded spot.

CHURCH LOOTER RIFLES PURSES

From the ill-fated cloak room were: Miss Mary Flodin, Miss Martha Hendrix, Mrs. G. W. Clayton, Miss Susie Clayton, Miss Julia Rawson and Mrs. B. C. Barefield.

Nor were those in attendance at Central Presbyterian church the only ones suffering from Sunday activities of the looter.

The list of establishments burglarized sometime before daybreak Sunday included: Frat House, 91 West North avenue, with a loss of approximately $45 in cash; Jack McDonald, 87; A. W. Rickback, 31; Cecil Parker, 82; and C. S. Roby, 150.

Waxing enthusiastic over their successes on West North avenue, the thieves then turned their attentions to 168 of the same street. From there the reports included: Owen Thomas, $35 in cash and a check for $25; Jack McDonald, $7; A. W. Rickback, $1; Cecil Parker, $2; and C. S. Roby, $1.50.

Two stores also fell the victims of enterprising bandits, though an estimate of their losses will not be available until an inventory is taken by their owners this morning. They are the grocery store of N. K. Graw, on Marion and Turner avenue, and the establishment of the Brooks Grain company, 212 Marietta street.

TEAPOT ARGUMENT WILL BEGIN TODAY

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—With all preparations made and the stage set for the last act in the Teapot Dome drama, attorneys for both the government and the Mammoth Oil company rested today.

Final arguments will be presented before Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy, beginning tomorrow. Atlee Pomeroy, of government counsel, is expected to make the first statement to the court. Mr. Pomeroy's argument will not be in written form, he said, and will take about two hours. The defense then will have its inimitable J. W. Lacey, veteran Cheyenne lawyer, arguing the technical points of the case. Mr. Lacey's argument likewise will be from notes, he said. This argument probably will be the longest of any to be made, since Mr. Lacey asked the court to set no limit on it.

George P. Hoover, also of counsel for the Mammoth Oil company, and E. H. Chandler, representing the co-defendants, the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company and the Sinclair Pipe Line company, also will make a brief statement. The argument of Martin W. Littleton, of defense counsel, has been set for the last of the defense statements. The government will close with the argument of Owen J. Roberts.

SIXTH VICTIM DIES IN MALT EXPLOSION

New Orleans, La., March 22.—Charles Hoerske, of Westwego, La., who was injured yesterday in an explosion of a malt mixer in the Maltese laboratories, died today, bringing the explosion victims to five. Hoerske, who was standing on the lid of the mixer when the blast occurred, was flung up under the roof and caught by a leg between the rafters. He was freed by firemen who reached him with a ladder.

LEGION FUND RAISED IN TWO HOURS' TIME

Lexington, N. C., March 21.—The American Legion endowment fund drive in this city went over the top in two hours' time Saturday and the teams raised over $200 more than was asked for.

The drive was led by Mayor J. A. Leonard, with the full cooperation of the business and civic interests of the city.

State Legion Commander Wade Phillips issued a bulletin at headquarters here, in which he indicated that the $50,000 quota assigned to the state would be substantially over-subscribed.

Carolina Woman Killed.

Sanford, N. C., March 22.—Mrs. W. H. Mims, 65, of near Merry Oaks, was killed instantly when the car in which she was riding with other members of her family overturned near Lemon Springs this afternoon. Mrs. E. C. Crews, of Durham, a daughter, suffered a fracture of the spine, although physicians at a hospital here, where she was carried, believe her injuries will not prove fatal.

NATIONAL TRIBUTE PLANNED BY DRAIN TO HONOR PERSHING

New York, March 22.—A national tribute to General Pershing will be given here April 25 at the Hippodrome, James A. Drain, national commander of the legion announced. Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, will make a presentation speech, accompanying the gift to Pershing of a bronze bust relief of himself.

SECOND BABY BORN TO ENID BENNETT

Los Angeles, March 22.—Enid Bennett, motion picture actress and her director-husband, Fred Niblo, became the parents of an eight-pound baby yesterday, and 13-year-old Loris Bennett became a sister, it was learned today.

IF YOU GET UP NIGHTS, IT MAY BE PROSTATITIS

The necessity of getting up at night and difficult, painful or too frequent urination, by day, may indicate kidney or bladder trouble, inflammation of the prostate or all three of these conditions. Nobody should ignore these warnings, especially men at or past middle life. It is estimated that far more than half of the men past 40 have some degree of prostate trouble, which frequently leads to a serious and expensive operation. Removal of the prostate should be "the last resort," because it nearly always impairs the health and energy for life.

Those who would not welcome a surgical operation and who seek relief from these painful and annoying conditions will be interested in a new home treatment known as Renex. It is not a "patent medicine," but a scientific product, developed by experts and used by both men and women with reports of gratifying success. Thousands praise it as having saved them from suffering and starting them toward new health.

Renex is distributed by a reliable company, which guarantees to refund the purchase price in full if a two-dollar treatment fails to satisfy the user within two weeks. Anybody wishing to test the new treatment under this money back guarantee can get it by filling out and mailing the attached coupon. The pain and danger involved in such cases makes delay unwise. Miss Skeen Wins Oratory Honor in Decatur Schools

She Will Represent All Decatur in District Contest To Be Held April 9th.

Miss Elizabeth Skeen, of Decatur High school, will represent Decatur schools in the district oratorical contest, to be held on April 9, it was announced Saturday by G. W. Glauert, superintendent of Decatur school and president of the Fifth District High School association.

Miss Skeen won over all other competitors in the Decatur schools with her oration on "Hamilton and the Constitution."

The fifth district contest will be one of 12, one in each congressional district of the state, to select the 12 champion high school orators of the state who will compete in the oratorical contest for the state championship to be held at Atlanta on April 24. To each of the 12 district winners The Constitution offers a prize of $15 in gold, and to first and second winners in the state contest, $100 and $20, respectively.

This contest is being staged in Georgia by The Constitution and the State High School association, in conjunction with the American Bar association. The winner from Georgia will compete with champions from other states in this, the fourth national zone, at Nashville on May 1, for the zonal championship. There the seven winners will then go to Washington, D. C., on May 7 for the national finals, when seven prizes will be awarded.

The subjects on which the orations are to be delivered all deal with the constitution of the United States. All are original with their deliverers and the object of the contest is not only to develop oratorical talent among the boys and girls in the nation's high schools, but to encourage the study of the fundamentals of American government, and its concomitant of better citizenship.

BIG BUILDING BOOM UNDER WAY AT DOUGLAS

A building program of approximately $200,000 is now in progress or soon to begin in Douglas. A modern hotel of 50 to 60 rooms will be erected at an early date by John R. Slater and J. C. Brewer, local business men. The site will be on the highest point in the city and where the old Citizens' Bank building stands.

Work already has begun on what will perhaps be the finest tobacco warehouse in Georgia. The structure will be 200x350 feet and built of brick and concrete. It will be fitted with running water and every modern convenience for handling tobacco and will be completed in time for the 1925 season. The warehouse is being built by a stock company and will be operated by W. W. Crisp and G. H. Pagan, who formerly lived in North Carolina, but have recently moved to Douglas. The cost of the building will be approximately $40,000.

Additions to the growers' warehouse, operated by McLean & George, will involve an expenditure of $10,000. The Red warehouse, recently purchased by Knott & Sykes, will be enlarged and this item will amount to several thousand dollars. This was the first warehouse to be built in Georgia and has not been used for a warehouse in several seasons. Messrs. Knott & Sykes have planted more than 500 acres of tobacco themselves this season.

When these buildings have been completed there will be more than twice as much floor space as was here last season and the four warehouses which will be operated here this season will cover more than four acres of ground, and represent an investment of nearly $200,000.

REV. CALEB RIDLEY SPEAKS ON REVIVAL SERIES IN ATLANTA

Rev. Caleb Ridley, pastor of Third Baptist church, spoke feelingly Sunday morning on the revival campaign now going on in Atlanta churches. In the course of his sermon, said "Protestantism throughout America is not lacking in wealth; it is not lacking in organization; it does not need more influence; but it does need two things: a more thorough and perfect understanding and cooperation among all its forces and a fresh endowment of power from Almighty God. It only needs Martin Luther to drive Roman Catholicism to cover, rescue the Bible and religious freedom to the world and bring back the church from the very shadows of death; but today with all our numbers, all our money, all our organization and all our influence we are fighting a losing battle with the forces of unbelief."

"When will the church open its ear heavenward and hear God's call to come back out of the wilderness of wandering and the swamp of sin and the quicksands of infidelity? We can have protracted and prolonged meetings in our own strength as churches, but revival came down from heaven. In the old days a few people could pray ten days and a Pentecost followed; now thousands of people claim to pray for weeks and only a series of meetings result."

"May this be the time in our great city when the forces of righteousness shall win a signal victory for Jesus Christ."

to the whereabouts of Miss Hoffman, she was told that she had returned to Knoxville.

How Absence Was Explained. It will be claimed, also, it is said, that Miss Hoffman's absence from Chattanooga had been accounted for another time by the explanation that she had married a man by the name of Brown and gone to California. Termination of regular correspondence between Miss Hoffman and her sister, Mrs. Clara Parker in Pennsylvania, will be stressed, it is said.

The state will set forth a claim, it is understood, that a check made payable to Miss Augusta Hoffman, and cashed approximately a year after she was seen in Chattanooga, bore a forged endorsement.

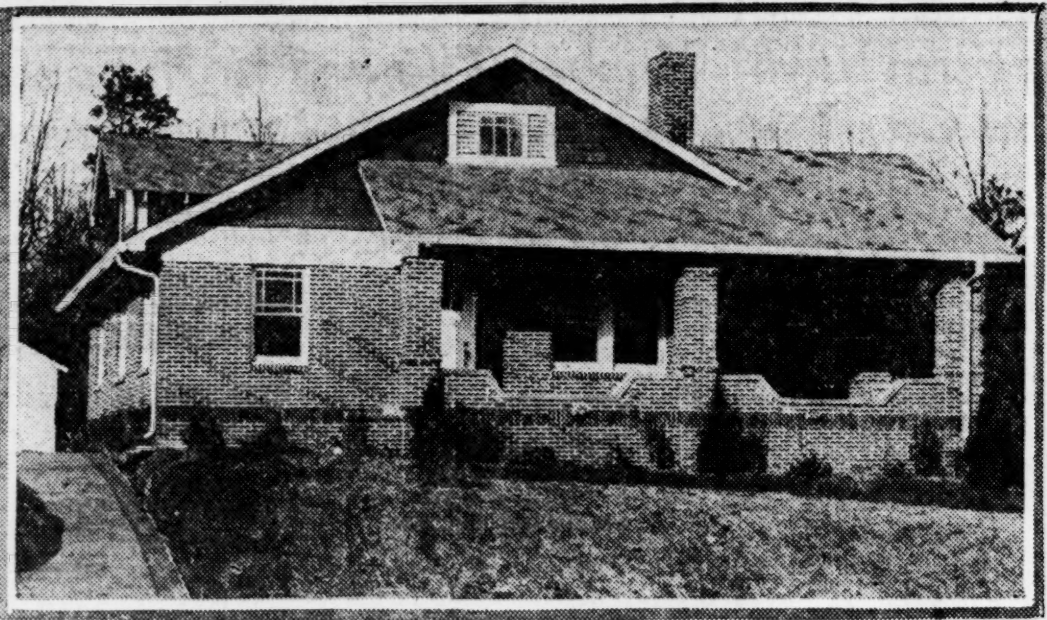

The case promises to be a bitter legal struggle. Attorneys of wide experience and distinction will represent the prosecution and defense, and the trial is expected to occupy several days. More than 100 witnesses have been summoned to hold themselves in readiness to testify.

Troop Acquires Site.

Savannah, Ga., March 22.—Troop "A" 10th cavalry, known here as "The Hussars," has acquired property sites on which it is planned to construct a new armory and stable. The lots are adjacent to Dutton's park, which they intend to use for drilling and riding.

The total investment is said to represent about $15,000.

Attractive Morningside Bungalow

room, with French doors separating them. The dining room is next to the living room, French doors also separating these two rooms. Back of the dining room is a real breakfast room with built-in china closets, and back of that a kitchen so planned that the keeper of this house will be saved many weary steps in her daily work.

The master's bed chamber is back of the sun room, and can be entered from there or from a back hall, into which two more bed chambers open. There is one attractive bath room which also is entered from this hall. The draperies in the living room and dining room will be made of silk damask in colors of orange, jade green and old blue. They will be hung floor length, with cornice, tied in colors in draperies. The glass curtains will be made of silk net in wide mesh. Plain rugs will be used in both these rooms. The dining room furniture is walnut, and the living room furniture will include overstuffed furniture and chair to match, upholstered with mohair, baby grand piano, wall clock, octagon-shaped table, odd chairs and end tables. A floor lamp, bridge lamp and table lamp with soft colored shades will lend enchantment to this room.

Sun Room Delights.

The sun room draperies will be made of cretonne, with bands of green glazed chintz. Wicker furniture painted to harmonize with the draperies with cushions covered with same material as draperies will be used in this room. A bird cage with singing canary will help make this room homelike.

The owner's bed room will be furnished with walnut furniture with double bed, vanity, chest of drawers, side chair and boudoir chair with slip cover to tone in with draperies. The draperies are being made of striped taffeta silk in colors of old blue and rose. They will hang floor length with soft valance made of taffeta silk in solid color.

A bed spread made of same material used in draperies will cover the bed.

The guest room will have painted furniture. The draperies are made of apple green organdie, combined with pink taffeta silk. They will hang from poles painted apple green, with rings painted pink. The other bed room will be used as a child's room. The newest thing in child's furniture has been brought to Atlanta by Sterchi for this room. The draperies will be made of blue silk, and the ruffled grenadine glass curtains will be pinned with blue silk and tied back.

AIRCRAFT SECRETS RELATED IN SERIAL

relevant matter. This series is the earnest attempt of a neutral to set forth the vital facts in the controversy.

Mitchell's Contention.—What then—omitting the fireworks—is General Mitchell's contention? He holds to begin with that the greatest future danger to our scheme of national defense is air power. He believes that when plans now maturing in foreign countries are worked out, air attack presents more danger than attack by either land or sea. He maintains that every form of surface naval craft is in process of being rendered obsolete by the air bomb. As the army fights on land and the navy on sea, the aeroplane fights in still another element. Its technique, strategy and tactics are so different from those of the army and navy that an air force cannot be worked out to full efficiency unless it is organized as a whole, and by experts who understand the game. Hence, what we need is a separate air service, under a new department of the cabinet.

As I have said, General—now Colonel—Mitchell was chief protagonist of this view. Probably most of our airmen agree with Mitchell, though consideration for military etiquette and perhaps fear of their jobs keep the rest silent.

Differences Set Out.

The higher officers of the regular army and navy—especially the navy—differ with Mitchell on every point. Though the airplane, they say, has revolutionized tactics, it remains an auxiliary. In our first line of defense, the navy, the battleship is still the undefeated heavyweight champion. The air bomb is a new enemy, but not a dominant one. On land, infantry is dominant.

Why Endure That Aching Back?

DOES your back ache day after day with a dull, unceasing D thro? Do sharp, rheumatic pains torture you at every sudden move? Are you so tired and nervous it seems you can never be well again?

Then look to your kidneys! The kidneys, you know, are the blood-filters. Once they weaken, poisons are apt to accumulate that well kidneys would have filtered off. Then comes constant backache, headaches, dizziness and kidney irregularities. One feels lame, stiff and aches—years older than he is.

Don't risk neglect! Help the kidneys with a stimulant diuretic. Use Doan's Pills, the remedy home folks recommend. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say These Atlanta Folks:

H. D. FULCHER, 474 Woodward Ave., says: "I had a terrible hurting in the small of my back and when I straightened up after stooping, sharp pains cut across my kidneys. My kidneys weren't active enough, either. It didn't take Doan's Pills long to make me feel like a different woman. Doan's put an end to kidney complaint."

MRS. M. E. BOHR, 159 Kelly St., says: "After a spell of the grip, my kidneys got out of fix and when I did any heavy work, my back played out and there was a constant hurting across my kidneys. My kidneys acted too often and I felt tired and worn out. Doan's Pills from Jacobs' Pharmacy rid me of the trouble."

is still the kernel of the matter. You cannot beat an enemy unless you occupy his territory; and how can you do that without aircraft? Such being the case, an independent air force would merely complicate matters. What we need, in both army and navy, is an aerial arm skilled not only in flying but in thousands of tactics; an integral part of the force. Admiral Sims, by the way, dissents to the point of believing that aeroplane bombs have an edge on surface craft; and that the battleship is doomed; but he opposed the united, independent air force.

I have used the phrase "national defense." There are two ways of defining that term, and the difference is important. You may say that national defense consists in equipping yourself so strongly that you can protect every American interest in every part of the world by force of arms. To do this, you are going to need the greatest armament in the world. One finds it hard to distance this "perfect defense" from militarism and imperialism.

Average Man's View.

The great majority of Americans would give the term another definition. Here we are, but in thousands of miles away from any nation powerful enough to trouble us. We are so self-sufficient that even a blockade would deprive us only of our foreign commerce; it would not keep them from anything necessary to maintain our life and to arm our men. If we can prevent an enemy from landing on our shores and cutting our sea-communications, we shall have enough national defenses. Anything further is perhaps a provocation.

When an American capitalist gets squeezed in a foreign business deal, when a missionary gets massacred in China, that hardly justifies the use of armed force for indemnity, justice, or vengeance. After all, most of these matters may be adjusted or compensated by the existing machinery of diplomacy.

If we regard the matter in this light, world-wide limitation of aerial armament is the best defense, and by all odds the cheapest. By mutual agreement, cut down the air forces of all nations to such a point that while they can protect their own territory, they cannot muster the superior offensive force necessary to attack their neighbors. I venture a guess, here and now, that President Coolidge has in mind at this moment just such a scheme of defense as regards aircraft.

Foreboding Silence.

Stories in the news which look like feelers from the white house; the sudden silence about the League of Nations disarmament plan; a hint in

WANTED

Man to take charge of loan and insurance office on commission basis. Address "Loans," care of Constitution a recent aircraft debate in the house of commons; a kind of semi-official announcement that Japan will accept a 5-5-3 ratio of aircraft as she has of battleships; certain unexplained incidents in the inside workings of the congressional committee investigating aircraft—all point toward this conclusion.

Mr. Coolidge may not be quite so silent as his press agents would make us think; but he is the most mysterious man who has occupied the white house in our time. Before he ever pokes his head above ground he has built his sub-structure. If he succeeds, satisfactory home defense of our continental area—and probably of our colonies will have been achieved to the satisfaction of most of us; and the aircraft inquiry will have been most happily settled.

But in case he fails? Then we must needs consider seriously the defense of our population and our cities from this new and subtle enemy; and the question of ways and means becomes important.

Atlanta Printing Firm Buys Print Paper in Car Lots

We were going through the Stein Printing plant at 29 South Forsyth street the other day, and this is what we saw.

A firm that while it is only one year old, is one of the largest in the south, and buys its paper in carload lots.

We saw here nearly $100,000 worth of the very latest equipment in the printing line and a large force of people very busy at work.

This firm does the printing for the state of Georgia, and they won this big contract in open competition with all bidders, their bid being much lower than all others.

A big job on the presses was 10,000 large tariff books for the American Express company. This contract was secured over the keenest competition of several large New York city firms, and is to the credit of Atlanta that one of its firms can reverse the old order of things and have a corporation with headquarters in the big city, come to Atlanta to have its good printing done.

Another large contract of two million booklets was secured over several large printing firms, in different parts of the country, and it gives the public some idea of what size this big printing company is when they can get a two-million job contract, for everybody will readily understand that is a lot of booklets to print along with all their every-day regular business.

The great secret of the quick success of this enterprising firm, is that the proprietors, J. S. Stein and Sam Rosenberg, have had many years' experience as practical executives with other large firms, and profiting by past experience, they equipped their new plant with all the very latest labor-saving equipment, this coupled with a very efficient staff of employees makes an organization so complete that no lost motion is seen anywhere, for from the time the copy is handed to the monotype operators till it gets to the boy that wraps it up in a hurry for delivery, that particular job is rushed on to completion.

It does not make any difference how large or small your printing job may be, they can do it for you in a hurry for they are prepared at all times to do quick work, and as they work 24 hours a day, your printing can be done while you sleep.

They also do much out-of-town work, visitors to Atlanta can give them an order in the morning and get their printed matter the same day, this is service extraordinary and this firm excels in good service, and you can save time and money like the state and big corporations do by having them do your printing.

"Coal of Uniform Quality"

Rubber Tile and Cork-Filled Flooring Great Improvement

Buildings constructed nowadays reveal a far greater beauty and harmony in their architectural treatment than we are in structures erected at any time in previous history.

The interior work in our modern home is given more thought than in former years and the average person contemplating building a home gives considerable time and thought to making each room as pleasant and comfortable as possible.

When it comes to the floor most building owners have a pretty definite idea of what they want and they all agree that a good floor must look well and be pleasing to the eye, must be quiet and comfortable, must be easy to clean and must be long-lasting.

There is a new firm, W. A. Lippincott, Inc., located at 172 Spring street, southern representatives of the Bonded Floors Co., Inc., a division of Congoleum, Inc., and the Good-year Rubber Tile, a division of the Good-year company, of Akron, Ohio.

This firm, while located in Atlanta only a month, has laid many beautiful floors in all the big cities in the south and while their floors in this section were laid for large buildings, clubs, libraries and hotels, they have added several expert workmen to their organization and now will take contracts for all classes of buildings where a splendid floor is needed.

These floors are planned by engineers and installed by specialists, and evidence a wide variety of beautiful patterns of multi-colors that give everybody the opportunity to have floors that surpass in color and richness the most expensive floors of marble and stone and yet they can be obtained at a very low cost.

This Spring street firm can send a crew of their expert workmen to your store or home and in a day or two convert your old, worn-out, unsightly floor into one of rare distinction and beauty, and when it is expedient this can be done without interruption of daily business.

The quality of these floors as laid by this firm, representing the largest floor covering people in the world, gives the people in the southeast the same opportunity now to have this kind of floors installed as good and quickly as is being done in the north and east.

All people of Atlanta and vicinity contemplating improving old floors in any way would not be doing themselves justice if they did not call by at the sample rooms and office at 172 Spring street to verify this story about these beautiful, resilient, non-slippery, non-absorbent, durable and buoyant, elastic floors that last a lifetime yet can be made as attractive as desired and fill every practical floor requirement.

While these beautiful floors must be seen to be appreciated, those living at a distance can get further information by mail or phone IVy 2724 and the information will be cheerfully furnished.

BOND HOUSE MOVES
THEIR OFFICES TO NEW BUILDING

Announcement is made of the removal of the offices of Brannan, Beckham & Co. from the Grant building to Nos. 321-322 Wynne-Claughton building.

This change was made owing to the necessity for larger quarters, due to an expansion program now being carried out by this company.

The new quarters in the Wynne-Claughton building are well adapted to the needs of the company in addition to being advantageously located to the business district of the city.

This firm has become very popular in the financial world, during the past few months and their investors have the assurance that all their first-mortgage bonds are underwritten by a national organization that protects their investment at all times.

While Atlanta is the home of this firm, it is inviting investors in all parts of the country to buy Atlanta first-mortgage bonds as their faith in Atlanta is so great that they are advising their clients everywhere to invest in Atlanta first-mortgage bonds as they cannot lose.

LYNCH & JOHNSON
ADD NEW DEPT. AND WILL ERECT TANKS

Lynch & Johnson, well-known and enterprising plumbing and contracting contractors, have recently opened a new department which covers the manufacture and erection of steel tanks, smokestacks, boiler breechings, ornamental balconies, fire escapes and all other work of like character involving the shaping and fabricating of steel and iron.

This department is in direct charge of Mr. Ed J. Lynch, brother of the senior member of the firm, and has had over twenty-five years' experience in this line of work, and a host of business acquaintances will be glad to learn of his new connection. The expansion into this line has necessitated larger and more commodious quarters, which are located on the Southern railroad at rear of 70 Ponce de Leon place.

This progressive firm is using all advanced methods in the new department and have installed a large General Electric company's welding outfit which is used in shaping up steel tanks, boiler breechings and all other work of this kind formerly made up by the riveting process. The electric weld is very efficient and has greater tensile strength and the smooth joints produced add another pleasing feature to the new method.

This firm is in excellent shape to renovate steam boilers, having railroad tracks at their door, where heavy boilers are unloaded into their shop, repaired and placed on cars and returned to owners, which plan eliminates trucking and handling where truckage is not available. Lynch & Johnson are still maintaining office and showroom at 33 E. Hunter street, where home-builders will find a nice display of plumbing fixtures and have a large and assorted stock of this class of material in their warehouse on the Southern railroad for this growing business.

They purchase plumbing and heating supplies in car lots, and unload direct into their warehouse and thus reduce the cost to the home builder. No charge is made for estimating in any of the above branches, and parties requiring work of this kind should get in touch with this concern. Telephone at showroom, 53 E. Hunter street, is Walnut 3243, and warehouse and shop on Southern railroad, Hemlock 4613.

PLANT EVERY TREE,
SHRUB AND PLANT;
IT'S GETTING LATE

If you expect to plant any trees or shrubs of any kind this spring you will have to do it very soon as it will soon be too late.

The nursery and landscape people around Atlanta all report an unusually good business this year so far and state that the people everywhere are beginning to appreciate the fact that a few dollars spent for ornamental or fruit trees and shrubs add many dollars to the value of their property and give them much pleasure as well.

One of the busiest nurseries around Atlanta at this time is the nursery in College Park owned by C. M. Mount, for the people are coming for many miles to get some of his splendid flowering plants, trees and many kinds of shrubbery.

Mr. Mount is a very popular man in this line and numbers his friends by the thousands, having designed many of the prettiest gardens and lawns around Atlanta. Recently he planted for the school of College Park about a mile of crepe myrtle and dogwood.

Farmers Need Reasonable
Credits on Sound Security,
Jardine Tells Big Business

Cooperative Agencies and Less 'Loose Talk' Stressed as Solution, Advanced by Secretary Jardine.

Washington, March 22.—An equal opportunity with other businesses, not a "constant monkeying" with his own by the government is held by Secretary Jardine to be the chief desire of the American farmer.

The sound "farmer-business man," he declares, is an interview to be published in the next issue of the National Business, organ of the United States Chamber of Commerce, instead of seeking legislation to fix prices and regulate details, wants only legislation that will assist him in "getting reasonable credit on sound security," and in developing machinery for marketing his products successfully, and that will "put him on a par with other business men."

Cooperation Needed.
As a "business man" with a "greater capital investment than the average retail merchant," and a "business vastly more complex," the farmer must, in the opinion of the secretary, pay more attention to improved marketing methods. Pointing out that there are already 5,000 cooperative grain marketing associations in the United States and about the same number of similar stock marketing organizations, he emphasizes that the hope of the producer to get a larger share of the consumer's dollar, "lies mainly in cooperative effort."

"If applied in the right way," he says, "cooperation can make of American farming a big, voluntarily unified, permanently and dependably profitable business in a way that no paternalistic legislation could possibly do."

"What we all need to do is to talk less tommyrot and throw fewer monkey wrenches into other people's machinery. We want to stop trying to line up one group against other groups. We want to work together. Americans should be cooperating, not quarreling with each other over the interests of this group or that."

"Loose Talk" Rapped.
Discussion of curtailment of production to improve the farmer's position is described by Mr. Jardine as "loose talk." Even if the curtailment of agricultural production were practicable he thinks it would not bring the results sought, although "the average of certain crops should be adjusted from time to time—now increased, now cut down."

Quantity and quality are the two things "that count" in the farm business as in any other, he feels, and profitable production "doesn't lie in producing at the lowest possible cost per acre," but in producing "in such a way as to give the biggest margin between the production cost per acre and the selling price per acre."

The problem, he says, "is just a business matter and the farmer is working it out on his own farm."

McGeachy charged the new pastor and Rev. J. G. Patton, Jr., charged the congregation. A capacity congregation was in attendance.

Mr. Sheffer was formerly in the evangelistic field in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Missouri, and at one time was in charge of the city mission work of the northern and southern Presbyterian churches of Dallas, Texas.

Hearts and Dollars

Two Statements—one of which has to do with Health and Welfare, the other with Financial Strength

AN OPEN LETTER
(Name on Request)

MR. HALEY FISKE, President
METROPOLITAN LIFE INSURANCE CO.
NEW YORK CITY

My Dear Mr. Fiske:

Why don't you publish a Heart Statement along with the regular Financial Statement you put out each year?

Any company can publish impressive figures of financial strength, financial growth, etc. But figures don't stick. All I remember from your last year's Statement is that the Metropolitan has several million policyholders and is the biggest life insurance company in the world.

I've been following some of your magazine advertisements lately that tell of work you're doing to help people live longer. It isn't entirely clear in my mind just how you're doing it or why you do it, but since you are doing it, give us the facts and figures on that. Call it a Heart Statement or a Welfare Statement, or anything you like, but—give us the facts.

Perhaps other Metropolitan policyholders like myself would be interested in a Statement of that kind.

Very truly yours,
C. N. S.

WE are indebted to Mr. S. for his suggestion. It is an excellent one. We publish an annual Business Statement of the Metropolitan, not because we think that the figures will be remembered, but because they offer conclusive evidence of unusual growth and strength to its 22,000,000 policyholders.

And it is this extraordinary financial strength that makes it possible for the Metropolitan to carry on a nation-wide campaign for better health and longer life.

People now live longer

Records kept by the Metropolitan show an extraordinary decrease in the death rate among its policyholders. Compared with 1911, for example, there were nearly 62,000 fewer deaths in 1924 among its Industrial Policyholders than there would have been if the 1911 death rate had prevailed.

While the average life span in the United States is 5½ years greater than it was 12 years ago, the life span of the Industrial Policyholders of the Metropolitan increased nearly 8½ years—a betterment of three years over the general average—in the same interval.

These increases in longer life are due in large part to the Metropolitan's Health and Welfare Work among its policyholders.

You are the gainer

You and all the other 22,000,000 policyholders—one out of every six people in the United States and Canada—reap the benefit through better health and decreased cost of insurance.

The wealth of the Metropolitan belongs to you and to no one else. The Metropolitan has no stock and no stockholders. It is owned solely by its policyholders.

You, as one of the policyholders, share in the ownership of all its investments; in its railroad bonds, its real-estate mortgages, its loans to farmers, loans to states, cities and towns for public improvements and similar enterprises.

You, as a part-owner of over $1,600,000,000, should read the two statements on the left with a feeling of pride in what your company has achieved.

The efforts as well as the assets of the Metropolitan are dedicated to protection against future want—to greater happiness, better health and longer life.

Haley Fiske.

The Lost World

BY SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

CHAPTER I

"There Are Heroisms All Round Us."

Mr. Hungerford, her father, really was the most taciturn person upon earth—a fluff, feathery, untidy cockatoo of a man, perfectly goodnatured, but absolutely centered upon his own silly self. If anything could have driven me from Gladys, it would have been the thought of such a father-in-law. I am convinced that he really believed in his heart that I came round to The Chestnut three days a week for the pleasure of his company, and very especially to hear his views upon bimetalism, a subject upon which he was by way of being an authority.

For an hour or more that evening I listened to his monotonous chirrup about bad money driving out good, the token value of silver, the depreciation of the rupee, and the true standards of exchange.

"Suppose," he cried with feeble violence, "that all the debts in the world were called up simultaneously, and immediate payment insisted upon—what under our present conditions would happen then?"

I gave the self-evident answer that I should be a ruined man, upon which he jumped from his chair, reproved me for my habitual levity, which made it impossible for him to discuss any reasonable subject in his presence, and bounced off out of the room to dress for a fraternal meeting.

At last I was alone with Gladys, and the moment of Fate had come! All that evening I had felt like the soldier who awaits the signal which will send him on a forlorn hope; hope of victory and fear of repulse alternating in his mind.

She sat with that proud, delicate profile of hers outlined against the red curtain. How beautiful she was! And yet how aloof! We had been friends, quite good friends; but never could I get beyond the same comradeship which I might have established with one of my fellow reporters upon the Gazette—perfectly frank, perfectly kindly, and perfectly unsexual. My instincts are all against a woman being too frank and at her ease with me. It is no compliment to a man. Where the real sex feeling begins, timidly and distrust are its companions, heritage from old wicked days when love and violence went often hand in hand. The head bent, the averted eye, the faltering voice, the wincing figure—these and not the unshrinking gaze and frank reply, are the true signals of passion. Even in my short life I had learned as much as that—or had inherited it in that race memory which we call instinct.

Gladys was full of every womanly quality. Some judged her to be cold and hard; but such a thought was treason. That delicately bronzed skin, almost Oriental in its coloring, that raven hair, the large liquid eyes, the full but exquisite lips—all the stigmata of passion were there. But I was sadly conscious that up to now I had never found the secret of drawing it forth. However, come what might, I should have done with suspense and being matters to a head tonight. She could but refuse me, and better be a repulsed lover than an accepted brother.

So far my thoughts had carried me, and I was about to break the long and uneasy silence, when two critical dark eyes looked round at me, and the proud head was shaken in smiling reproof. "I have a presentment that you are going to propose, Ned. I do wish you wouldn't; for things are so much nicer as they are."

I drew my chair a little nearer. "Now, how did you know that I was going to propose?" I asked in genuine wonder.

"Don't women always know? Do you suppose any woman in the world was ever taken unawares? But—oh, Ned, our friendship has been so good and so pleasant! What a pity to spoil it! Don't you feel how splendid it is that a young man and a young woman should be able to talk face to face as we have talked?"

"I don't know, Gladys. You see, I can talk face to face with—with the station-master. I can't imagine how that official came into the matter; but in he trotted, and set us both laughing. 'That does not satisfy me in the least. I want my arms round you, and your head on my breast, and—oh, Gladys, I want—' I want—"

She had sprung from her chair, as she saw signs that I proposed to demonstrate some of my wants. "You've spoiled everything, Ned," she said. "It's all so beautiful and natural until this kind of thing comes in! It is such a pity! Why can't you control yourself?"

"I didn't invent it," I pleaded. "It's nature. It's love."

"Well, perhaps, if both love, it may be different. I have never felt it."

"But you must—you, with your beauty, with your soul! Oh, Gladys, you were made for love! You must love."

"One must wait till it comes." "But why can't you love me, Gladys? Is it my appearance, or what?"

She did unbind a little. She put forward a hand—such a gracious, soothing attitude it was—and she pressed back my head. Then she looked into my upturned face with a very wistful smile.

"No, it isn't that," she said at last. "You're not a conceited boy by nature, and so I can safely tell you it is not that. It's deeper."

"My character?"

"It's nobody in particular," she explained, laughing at the expression of my face; "only an ideal. I've never met the kind of man I mean."

"Tell me about him. What does he look like?"

"Oh, he might look very much like you."

"How dear of you to say that! Well, what is it that he does that I don't do? Just say the word—total, vegetarian, aeronaut, theosophist, superman. I'll have a try at it, Gladys, if you will only give me an idea what would please you."

She laughed at the elasticity of my character. "Well, in the first place, I don't think my ideal would speak like that," said she. "He would be a harder, sterner man, not so ready to adapt himself to a silly girl's whim. But, above all, he must be a man who could do, who could act, who could look death in the face and have no fear of him, a man of great deeds and strange experiences. It is never a man that I should love, but always the glories he had won; for they would be reflected upon me. Think of Richard Burton! When I read his wife's life of him I could so understand her love! And Lady Stanley! Did you ever read the wonderful last chapter of that book about her husband? There are the sort of men that a woman could worship with all her soul, and yet be the greater, not the less, on account of her love, honored by all the world as the inspirer of noble deeds."

She looked so beautiful in her enthusiasm that I nearly brought down the whole level of the interview. I gripped myself hard and went on with the argument.

"We can't all be Stanleys and Burtons," said I; "besides, we don't get the chance—at least, I never had the chance. If I did, I should try to take it."

"But chances are all around you. It is the mark of the kind of man I mean that he makes his own chances. You can't hold him back. I've never met him, and yet I seem to know him so well. There are heroisms all round us waiting to be done. It's for men to do them, and for women to reserve their love as a reward for such men. Look at that young Frenchman who went up last week in a balloon. It was blowing a gale of wind; but because he was announced to go he insisted on starting. The wind blew him fifteen hundred miles in twenty-four hours, and he fell in the middle of Russia. That was the kind of man I mean. Think of the woman he loved, and how other women must have envied her! That's what I should like to be—envied for my man."

"I'd have done it to please you."

"But you shouldn't do it merely to please me. You should do it because you can't help yourself, because it's natural to you, because the man in you is crying out for heroic expression. Now, when you described the Wigan coal explosion last month, could you not have gone down and helped those people, in spite of the choke-damp?"

"I did."

"You never said so."

"There was nothing worth bucking about."

"I didn't know," she looked at me with rather more interest. "That was brave of you."

"I had to. If you want to write copy, you must be where the things are."

"What a prosaic motive! It seems to take all the romance out of it. But, still, whatever your motive, I am glad that you went down that mine." She gave me her hand; but with such sweetness and dignity that I could only stoop and kiss it. "I dare say I am merely a foolish woman with a young girl's fancies. And yet it is so real with me, so entirely part of my very self, that I cannot help acting upon it. If I marry, I do want to marry a famous man!"

"Why should you not?" I cried. "It is women like you who brace men up. Give me a chance, and see if I will take it! Besides, as you say, men ought to make their own chances, and not wait until they are given. Look at Oliver—just a clerk, and he conquered India! By George! I'll do something in the world yet!"

She laughed at my sudden Irish fervor. "Why not?" she said. "You have everything a man could have—youth, health, strength, education, energy. I was sorry you spoke. And now I am glad—so glad—if it wakes these thoughts in you!"

"And if I do—"

Her dear hand rested like warm velvet upon my lips. "Not another word, sir! You should have been at the office for evening duty half an hour ago; only I hadn't the heart to remind you. Some day, perhaps, when you have won your place in the world, we shall talk it over again."

And so it was that I found myself that foggy November evening pursuing the Camberwell train with my heart glowing within me, and with the eager determination that not another day should elapse before I should find some deed which was worthy of my lady. But who—who in all this wide world could ever have imagined the incredible shape which that deed was to take, or the strange steps by which I was led to the doing of it? I And, after all, this opening chapter will seem to the reader to have nothing to do with my narrative; and yet there would have been no narrative without it, for it is only when a man goes out into the world with the thought that there are heroisms all round him, and with the desire all alive in his heart to follow any which may come within sight of him, that he breaks away as I did from the life he knows, and ventures forth into the wonderful mystic twilight land where lie the great adventures and the great rewards. Behold me, then, at the office of the Daily Gazette, on the staff of which I was a most insignificant unit, with the settled determination that very night, if possible, to find the quest which should be worthy of my Gladys! Was it hardness, was it selfishness, that she should ask me to risk my life for her own glorification? Such thoughts may come to middle-aged men; but never to ardent, and—twenty in the fever of his first love.

Some of them are even working cross-word puzzles. I wouldn't mind it at all but they have a habit of using me for a dictionary! Five Thousand See Horse Guard Polo Victory

Infantry Downed Second Time at Fort McPherson; Capt. Stone Leads Scorers

BY ROY E. WHITE.

The Governor's Horse Guard polo team, led by Captain Stone, won a well-played game from the 22nd Infantry team yesterday afternoon at Fort McPherson before a record crowd.

The score of the game was: Governor's Horse Guard, 4; 22nd Infantry, 3.

The crowd, estimated to be over 5,000 persons, was one of the largest that ever attended an athletic contest at Fort McPherson on Sunday afternoon.

To relieve the congestion of the automobiles at the polo grounds, the Fort allowed the autoists to park parallel to each other on all four sides of the polo grounds and several thousand fans witnessed the games from automobiles.

One row of spectators sat in front of the polo grounds and every available space on the sidelines was taken up and all other parking places in the government reservations were packed to capacity.

As a preliminary to the polo match a scrub baseball game was played between two picked teams and it ended in a regular old-fashioned hitting war, with every player figuring in the game.

The Twenty-second Infantry band furnished plenty of music and many popular pieces were played during the intermission between the polo matches.

Second Meeting.

It was the second meeting of the series between the Governor's Horse Guard and the Twenty-second Infantry polo teams and the Horse Guard again now holds two victories over the infantry team. The first score was to 3, made two weeks ago.

When the series is completed a handsome silver trophy will be awarded to the winner of the series. Lieutenant Moran, one of the star polo players on the Horse Guard, was the first to score when he drove the ball between the goal posts early in the first period.

He was the star two weeks ago and yesterday he was well guarded by the Infantry team, but he away with a score early in the first period. His playing throughout the game was spectacular but he was a closely guarded that he scored only once.

Captain Stone was the star of the victory yesterday afternoon and was the leading scorer of the game with two goals, one in the second period and one in the fifth period.

Clark and Moran were the other scorers for the winners.

Lieutenant McPhadden scored all three goals for the 22nd Infantry team, scoring one in the second period, one in the fourth period and one in the sixth period.

The Horse Guard team played a brilliant game throughout the game and only a rally by the Infantry team in the fifth period prevented two other scores for the Horse Guard team.

There were no spills during the afternoon but the spectators were treated to a bit of rare riding in the fifth period when one of the Horse Guard horses attempted to stop too quick and the rider landed on the horse's ears, but held on long enough to get back into the saddle.

55-TO-1 SHOT CARRIES OFF GRAND PRIX

Paris, March 22.—A 55-to-1 shot won the first big feature of the Metropolitan racing season today when Holbeach, a 3-year-old gelding, carried off the Grand Prix du Printemps at Auteuil. Holbeach, ridden by an apprentice jockey, Jean Luc, was neglected in the betting.

STRIB'S PARTY REACHES COAST

San Francisco, Cal., March 22.—Young Stribling, the Georgia boxer, arrived here today for his 10-round bout next Saturday with Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia light-heavyweight.

The fight is the feature of an afternoon outdoor card to be held in the ball park. Loughran arrived some days ago.

Forty men applied on first practice to the yearling mentor last week, among whom appeared some likely material for a nine. Two men, Wooten and Keaton, look good at first, with Butts, Herndon and Al-fried doing well on second. Cobb and Neal divide honors at short.

LaFitte, Hardy and Lovett are applying for third. In the outfield Smith and King are possibly the leaders among a number. Howard likely will hold the home-plate position, as Forrester, his chief opposition for catcher, has just undergone an operation which will place him out for the season.

"Hog Eye" Rogers, a Macon boy who held Sally League teams in exhibition games last year, is on the fresh mound staff, as is Joiner, former twirling artist of Gordon institute.

Four Aces of Connie's Team

Above are the four aces Connie Mack is holding to deal him a winning hand in the American league race this season. Walberg, back from Milwaukee, is "ready." Al Simmons was the star of the team last year. Hauser is after more home-run honors. Jimmy Dykes was the most valuable man on the squad last season.

TRAVELERS GET CUBAN HURLER

Little Rock, Ark., March 22.—Jose Hernandez, a right-handed pitcher from Havana, has been signed by the Little Rock Travelers, Manager Blackburn announced today. Hernandez speaks no English. This will be his first venture into professional circles in the United States.

Senators and Giants, Champs, To Clash at Gowdy Field

That game scheduled at Fort Benning, Ga., for March 31, between the Washington Senators and New York Giants, champions of their respective leagues, may be marked as an epoch in the annals of the national game. Gowdy field will be dedicated by these champion teams on this date.

The contest will be held under the auspices of the U. S. government. Both clubs have agreed to donate their share of the receipts to the further improvement and development of this U. S. army arena.

When President John D. Miller, of the National League, heard of the game, its purpose and donation of their services by the contending teams, he sent his personal congratulations to Manager John McGraw, of the Giants, who was then already down in the south, preparing his team for the 1925 campaign.

"I wish to congratulate you," wrote the league head to McGraw. "In arranging this game and giving the services of your team to further the playing of baseball in the U. S. army, you have kept close to the highest standards and traditions of the National League and followed its finest policies. When the U. S. government named its field after a National league ball player they paid a high tribute to professional baseball, as high as the game has ever been paid. This exhibition game, played under these circumstances and in such a setting, deserves a place in the most important of the annals and achievements of the game."

Singular Honor.

This naming of a regular army post stadium after a soldier who was just a volunteer, never having served in the regular army, is unique in army annals. It is not believed there is in the records such honor to a volunteer as that accorded good old Hank Gowdy, of the New York Giants team.

FEATURE RACE JACK FACES COPPED BY DE PALMA

San Francisco, March 22.—Ralph de Palma, in 8 minutes and 22 3-5 seconds, today won the 10-mile feature event in the automobile racing meet on the Tamien dirt track south of here. Frank Lockhart won a five-mile race in 4 minutes 10 2-5 seconds, and Jack Peddicord won another 10-mile race in 9 minutes 3 4-5 seconds.

Four accidents, occurring within three minutes and resulting in the injuring of four racing pilots, were witnessed by the 15,000 spectators. It was believed none was fatally injured. Those hurt were Mike Moffie, San Francisco; Leigh Green, Los Angeles; Henry Beal, San Francisco, and Harold Hall, San Jose.

RIVAL CAGE FIVES MEET TUESDAY

Two of the best amateur basketball teams in the city will meet Tuesday night on the city auditorium court in the climax to Atlanta's basketball season. A picked team from all of the players in the Sunday School league, coached by Roy Mundorff, will meet a picked team from the Epworth League, coached by Howard Holt.

All the supporters of the Sunday School and Epworth leagues will be there in full force and Mayor Walter A. Sims has promised to start the fireworks by tossing up the first ball.

Frank Roman and his Georgia Tech band will be there to furnish the music.

The Georgia Railway and Power company's quartet will render several vocal numbers.

As a preliminary to the big game the all-star girls' team from the Epworth League will play the Decatur High quint.

Crackers To Break Camp Sunday; Meet Orioles And Reading This Week

Winter Park, Fla., March 22.—(Special.)—As the Crackers enter into the last week of training under the warm rays of a Florida sun, two players who were in camp this time last week have been issued their walking papers by the management.

Little Nelson Leach, 145-pound son of the great Tommy Leach, of Pittsburgh fame, is the latest victim of Bert Niehoff's guillotine, which is disastrous to the Southern league hopes of many candidates. Phil Morrison was the first to go via the pink-slip route.

Leach was a candidate for second base, the position held down by Boss Niehoff himself. The skipper still has several years of good baseball coming to him before he turns in his uniform in favor of the sidelines.

Mike Gazella, former Yank recruit, is looking for the utility infield job, and Leach will have to go to some other club for more grooming before he is ripe for Southern league ball.

Infield Is Intact.

The infield is now intact, with Murphy, Niehoff, Krehmeyer and Smith for the regular berths. Zoeller and Good, both good men and tried, will hold down a couple of the outfield jobs, but the third man remains to be selected. It is hardly thought that any of the outfield rookies in camp will do this year. Michalove hopes to get some other good man from the tanks to complete the list of outfielders.

When this is done and the pitching staff is selected from the 12 hurlers in camp, the team will be ready for the long grind with Brock and Jenkins or Cashion behind the plate.

The 17 days in camp have been filled with hard work and the condition of the players is very encouraging. The Crackers will abandon the Winter Park quarters next Sunday and head for Atlanta and an exhibition series before opening the season, April 14.

The two exhibition games to be played before departing for home will be with the Baltimore Orioles, in Tusks, Tuesday, and Reading, in Leesburg, Wednesday.

Sally Tennis Tourney Opens Today in Augusta

Augusta, Ga., March 22.—(Special.) The South Atlantic Tennis tournament opens here tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock with an entry list of over 40 local, national and international players. The tournament this year is expected to be the hardest contested in recent years, judging from rehearsals held this afternoon on the Augusta Country club courts.

It was late today that William Tilden, second, will not be among the famous stars as was first intended. Tilden, according to a report, decided to go to Los Angeles.

Vincent Richards, national and international player, will probably arrive Tuesday. Boals Wright, former captain of the 1908 Davis cup team, was a spectator at the rehearsals this afternoon. Among those tried out on the courts this afternoon were the Hardys, former captain of the international team; George Lott, 17-year-old wonder of Canada; Dr. Rosenbaum, A. H. Chapin, Jr., Tackey Harada, Japanese player, and Howard Voshell.

Among the women to take part are Mrs. Sobst, west side, New York, champion; Mrs. Johnson, twice south Atlantic champion; May Ballin, and others.

B. M. A. C. BOXERS KEPT SECRET

Freddie Boorde, matchmaker for the Business Men's Athletic club, has announced that Thursday night bouts will be held at 38 1-2 Decatur street will be the best of the season.

Just who the boxers will be is being kept a secret and Boorde gives as a reason that some of the young boxers in the city find out who they are to meet and then get uneasy.

There will be seven bouts in all Thursday night, with two heavyweights as the headliners.

ALMEND PARK NINE IS WINNER

The Almend Park nine in the initial game Saturday proved that it is just as strong if not stronger than last season, when it won 24 out of 27 games played.

The opponents, The Pullman company, a newly organized club, suffered defeat by a 13-to-1 score, the only run being scored in the ninth inning when Davis eased up and allowed a couple of safeties.

BARKING OF DOG AWAKENS FAMILY IN BURNING HOME

Macon, Ga., March 23.—The barking of a collie dog probably saved the lives of Duncan L. McRae, 70-year-old broker, his son and two daughters, early Monday morning when their home on fire. Neighbors heard the dog barking and reported the fire, some of them arousing the McRae family.

All escaped in their night cloth ing.

Mr. McRae is a brother of General James G. McRae and it was in his home that the world war general was entertained while on a visit here more than a year ago.
